THE COMPUTER PEOPLE JOSH AND KELLIE HARTWELL GOSUB 60

Josh and Kellie's story began while working together at Encore Software in Los Angeles. Today they operate a Santa Monica company specializing in mobile games like Solitaire Deluxe and Bliss (a Zen-inspired shape-and-color matching puzzle challenge: players can rack up points that the company turns into donations for breast-cancer research). Although she takes pride in their accomplishments, Kellie stresses: "Not everyone should start a business with their spouse. For us it worked . . . but it can be a challenge, and it isn't for everyone."

In this case, the couple's situation works because of a willingness to wear any hat necessary. "I handle developing games and some of the business side," says Josh, while Kellie utilizes her talents in sales and marketing. "I have a respect for what he does," she says. "Respect is very important for a partnership to work between married couples." To take advantage of the fruits of their labor, try out the GOSUB 60 games at www.mobiledeluxe.com.
